Dr. Antonio Cordella, London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE)

a.cordella@lse.ac.uk

Antonio Cordella has an undergraduate degree in Political Science form the University of Bologna and a Ph.D. in Information Systems from the University of Gothenburg. He is lecturer in the Information Systems and Innovation Group at the Department of Management at the London School of Economics. His current research focused on ICT in the Public Sector, with specific attention to e-government and the associated institutional changes.

His most recent publications on the subject are:

